

Arrange the 9 statements in order of importance.

Creativity in science is collaborative

Creativity in science is individual

Science does not require using your imagination

Science education should help children generate outcomes that are original to them

Science should encourage young people to ask their own questions about the world around them

Scientific inquiry is a creative endeavour

Scientific inquiry is about critical questioning and scientific method

There is no place for creativity in scientific methods

You cannot expect young people to ask appropriate questions without some prior knowledge about science

