

On-line counseling

The activity of the class teacher with the parents of the students in the classes he leads can be very much improved if the means offered to everyone by the Internet network are used.

This experiment has started around the year 2007, when 40% of the school's students had a PC at home and only about 10% were connected to the NET. Still, the parents who could benefit from this way of communication were very pleased with this opportunity and insisted to cooperate in this direction, so that at the time the connection through this means of communication is complex and nearly all parents participate in it.

On the edu.digitservices.ro site, installed on a moodle server, the author has created a contest named Form Master Counseling, on which he posted all materials of interest for the parents and students, connected to the administration of the class under all aspects. The parents had access to the page through the accounts of the own children. Thus they were able to find out immediately about all events in connection to the class and to the own student. The information posted on the page went from simple announcements of parent/teacher meetings to study material for the parents counseling activity called "lectureship". The activity over several years has shown that the parents are able to use this modern information means and it has shown that they like this way of communication.

On this page the general class books of the classes that I have lead were published.

<http://edu.digitservices.ro/>

<http://edu.digitservices.ro/course/view.php?id=30>